Dolf Bass added:

Harry was a long-time head of a patent liaison group initially in B59 Emulsion Research but then expanded to other areas. About 1980, when I joined the patent liaison group on the 11th floor of B83, Harry was a kind of titular head, but group members reported to several research divisions (I was part of the color photography division, Gene Oliver and Tom Tisher reported to color instant, etc.). His CRC Chemical Handbook came into my hands when he retired in the early 80's.

Bob Shanebrook remembers:

He was a KRL patent guy who wrote "From KODACHROME to INSTANT COLOR" ©2000.
